In the case of tie bids - the bid received earliest wins. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken.
7. A word on Reserves. If a lot is reserved, it will not be in excess of the estimate. 8. Sales tax and postage are added to all invoices where appropriate.
9. Prices Realized are published shortly after the sale and mailed to all bidders who have participated in the sale.

Ex: CNA IV; September 21, 1988; lot 259.
This coin is an enigma as there is not a published example with a clear date. If the mark on the reverse is indeed a capital I, then is it a mark of value? A clear, well-centered example could solve this interesting but minute dilemma!

This reverse type is published only by Curtis to my knowledge and Curtis notes that it is otherwise unpublished (and his specimen [plated] is only one of two known). This piece may be the second example that he mentions, but in any event, it is an extremely rare type.

150. Uncertain Year. Æ Chalkon. (0.78 gms.). Anepigraphic, laureate head right. Bull or elephant standing right. Possibly unpublished? Good Fine, dark green-brown patina, rare denomination. (20)

Erik Christiansen proposed a new, possible denomination system for the Alexandrian bronze coinage in his recent two-volume set, The Roman Coins of Alexandria, that has much merit! This system consists of a drachm, hemidrachm, 1 1/2 obol coin or trihemiobol (diobol), 3/4 obol or hexachalkon (obol), trichalkon (dichalkon), and dichalkon (chalkon). I have chosen the traditional denominations (in parenthesis) for the purpose of this catalogue but as Mr. Christiansen notes, there is much need for further research in this area!

If the goat on the reverse is identified as a stag, then this type could be interpreted as "Ares of the Upper Sebennyte nome." However, the goat's "beard" is clearly visible thus negating the "stag theory." It is possible that the die-engraver did not understand or realize the importance of the "Upper Sebennyte nome type," and he substituted a goat for the stag out of ignorance!

This type is known for both year 2 (BMC 1207, Datt. 2859, Dem. 1553) and year 5. Based on the legend arrangement and portrait style, I have assigned it to year 5 since the date is illegible.

186. Year 5(141/142 AD). Æ Drachm. (24.76 gms.). Similar legend, laureate head right. L [E?], bust of Euthenia right. cf. Dattari 2550. F+/near VF, medium brown patina, rare type. (100)

This coin was most likely struck during Pius' regnal year 5 in Alexandria. The bust type of Euthenia compares to similar bust types of other members of the Greco-Romano-Egyptian pantheon struck primarily during Pius' years 4 and 5. Conclusively, this coin shares the same obverse die as Köln 1387 (Canopi over eagle), also struck in year 5.

Ex: Bill Kalmbach Collection.

This pantheistic bust of Sarapis portrays him with the modius and atef crown, ram's horn of Ammon, radiate crown of Helios, trident of Poseidon combined with the serpent-staff of Asklepios, and the cornucopiae of Nilus before. One of the more interesting reverse types in the Alexandrian series and scarce!

The Dattari specimen is described as legend worn as is this coin, thus this could also be ex Dattari collection.

Dr. Metcalf notes in his article [citing Milne] that contemporary forgeries of Alexandrian coins are rare and most counterfeits are of modern origin. The counterfeiter's hoard published by Metcalf was acquired by E. T. Newell at Luxor in March, 1908 and is now in the collection of the American Numismatic Society. Metcalf notes that "the 76 pieces still in the ANS may or may not represent the entire hoard, since Newell was in the habit of disposing of duplicates or damaged specimens." The above coin is more than likely one such coin disposed of by Newell.
